

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Yuuguu to demonstrate groundbreaking remote collaboration tools at Web 2.0 Expo Berlin

Yuuguu lets friends and colleagues remotely share computer screens for free

Manchester, UK, November 5, 2007 – Yuuguu (www.yuuguu.com) announced that they are exhibiting at the Web 2.0 Expo held in Berlin, Germany from November 5-8. Web 2.0 Expo, co-produced by CMP and O'Reilly Media, Inc., is an annual gathering of Europe's most innovative Internet figures and companies responsible for revolutionizing the web industry and building the next generation web. Conference details can be found at <http://berlin.web2expo.com>.

Yuuguu is changing the way an increasingly mobile world works and plays together by enabling users to remotely share and take control of their computer screens just as if they were sitting in the same room. Users can ask anyone to securely share their computer screen in real time, whether they're on a PC or Mac platform — and colleagues just need a browser and Internet connection to participate.

Yuuguu brings a sense of community to web collaboration applications. With its integrated presence, users can see when friends are online and click to invite them. And low cost voice conferencing services for one-to-one and one-to-many calling further enhance the collaborative experiences, as colleagues and friends can chat as they share screens and applications.

Users can download Yuuguu free of charge at www.yuuguu.com

About Web 2.0 Expo

Web 2.0 Expo was launched by O'Reilly Media and CMP to meet the increasing demand for Web 2.0 comprehension and skills, as well as build a broader European Web 2.0 community. A companion event to the Web 2.0 Summit, Web 2.0 Expo is the conference and tradeshow for the rapidly growing ranks of designers and developers, product managers, entrepreneurs, VCs, marketers, and business strategists who are embracing the opportunities created by Web 2.0. Web 2.0 Expo Berlin takes place November 5-8, 2007 in Berlin, Germany. For more information, visit <http://berlin.web2expo.com>.

About Yuuguu Ltd.

Yuuguu is the brainchild of Anish Kapoor and Philip Hemsted. It's a solution to help people work together remotely, through any firewall, across different platforms as though they're sitting side-by-side. The company's vision stretches far beyond the world of work; Yuuguu's unique, easy to install features can give anybody the freedom to be together, whether at work or play, even when they're not in the same room.
